Park Madison Partners visits construction site of One World Trade Center in Lower Manhattan

New York, NY, April 19, 2013 – Several members of the Park Madison Partners team recently visited the site of One World Trade Center (“1 WTC”) to tour the asset and hear about future construction plans in and around the tower. The team was accompanied by Erik Horvat and Philippe Visser, who currently head the World Trade Center Redevelopment project for the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

“We would like to thank Erik and Philippe for giving us this special opportunity to tour what is already an iconic New York City landmark,” said Park Madison Partners’ Gentry Hoit. “The construction of One World Trade and redevelopment of the entire World Trade Center site is momentous and will change the complexion of Lower Manhattan in the same way that the United Nations changed the East side and Lincoln Center changed the West side.”

One World Trade Center, sometimes referred to as the “Freedom Tower”, is being constructed near the site of the original World Trade Center, which was destroyed on September 11, 2001. Upon completion, One World Trade will be the tallest building in the Western Hemisphere, with a spire reaching a symbolic 1,776 feet in reference to the year of American Independence. It is currently the tallest building in New York City.
